Gastón de los Reyes is Associate Professor and Director of the Center for Social Impact & Innovation for Glasgow Caledonian University’s New York campus. A scholar specializing in business ethics, policy, and strategy, Gastón has published in management journals including Business Ethics Quarterly, California Management Review, and Journal of Cleaner Production as well as law reviews, including a forthcoming article in the Georgetown Environmental Law Journal titled, Aristotelian Decency as a Corrective Framework for Compliance-Induced Environmental Racism. Gastón earned a Ph.D. in Ethics and Legal Studies from the Wharton School, University of Pennsylvania and a J.D. from the Boston University School of Law. His first appointment was with the George Washington University School of Business’s Department of Strategic Management and Public Policy, where he continues to teach business ethics and public policy. He also teaches strategy and international management with Northeastern University and the University of Massachusetts. Before his doctoral studies, Gastón practiced law, studied philosophy, and worked in finance.